Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—Maine men Henry Payne has just issued the following bulletin: "McKinley has 261 electoral votes sure. The telegraph dispatch to the effect that Jones had issued a bulletin claiming Bryan's election is a fraud. Indiana will give both houses to the republicans and every republican congressman in the state is elected. We do not claim California, Tennessee or Nebraska in the count of 261. Michigan is republican by 40,000 plurality."

J. R. Dunlop Gives Up.

OUR VICTORIOUS LEADERS.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

GARRET A. HOBART.

BIG LANDSLIDE IN WISCONSIN

McKinley's Plurality Will Reach 100,000 Without Doubt.

TEN REPUBLICAN CONGRESS-MEN ARE ELECTED

Henry A. Cooper, of This District,
Has the Largest Plurality, 12,296—
State Legislature Republican by 101
on Joint Ballot—John C. Spooner To Be U. S. Senator—Beloit Gives the Largest Comparative Republican Plurality in the State.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—[Special] —Information received up to 12 o'clock from all parts of the state indicate that McKinley's plurality will be at least 90,000 and when the rural districts are heard from the figures will be nearer 100,000.

It has been a regular land-slide in Wisconsin and in addition the ten republican congressmen are elected.
Every senate district in the state has gone republican by big majorities.
In joint ballot the republicans will have 101 majority. Chairman Coe states that he will concede the election of only two democratic senators. This legislature will have to elect a senator to succeed
William Vilas, and it will elect Ex-Senator John C. Spooner, who has such a lead that no other candidate would have the slightest show, even if one should appear. The congressmen elected are:

DIST.	NAME	PLURALITIES
1st	H. A. Cooper	12,296
2nd	Edward Sauerherring	6,100
3rd	J. W. Babcock	9,750
4th	Theodore Olsen	4,338
5th	S. S. Barney	8,750
6th	J. H. Davidson	6,792
7th	Michael Griffin	8,750
8th	E. S. Miner	5,324
9th	Alexander Stewart	11,300
10th	John J. Jenkins	11,600

The result in the third and tenth congressional districts was a surprise, even to republicans, as it was expected that the result would be close. Jenkins in the tenth had a walk-away over Remington. Babcock is returned from the third by a handsome majority.

Beloit the Banner
Beloit, Nov. 4.—[Special]—Beloit gave the largest comparative majority for McKinley of any city in Wisconsin.
The vote stood, McKinley, 1,664; Bryan, 405. The citizens are wild with enthusiasm over the result.
Flags are flying everywhere, bands are playing, and there is universal rejoicing.

Monroe is in Line.
Monroe, Nov. 4.—[Special]—Green county gives McKinley a majority of 800 to 1,000. Cooper runs fully up to the head of the ticket. Monroe with its free silver club of 700 members gives McKinley about 150 majority.

Jefferson County All Republican.
Jefferson, Wis., Nov. 4.—The republicans carry the whole of Jefferson county by from 700 to 800. Not one democratic candidate was elected in the county.

CLASSIFIED SERVICE.

Twenty-One Hundred Employees Added
by an Executive Order Just Issued.

Washington, Nov. 4.—About 2,100 employees have been added to the classified service by the issuance of an order by the President directing that the rules of the navy department regulating the employment of labor at the navy yard shall not be changed without the approval of the civil service commission. The ordnance department at large is placed in the classified service under civil service rules. The executive order also classified examiners in the department of justice and exempted from examination attorneys and assistant attorneys now in the department whose main duties are connected with the management of cases in court.

Negroes Killed by White Caps.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 4.—While Jeff Jackson, John Adams, William Taylor and Robert Alliso, negro laborers, were working at a sugar cane mill near Wild Fork, Monroe County, last night, they were fired upon from the darkness by unknown persons. All but Taylor were instantly killed. He will die. It is supposed to have been done by a gang of white caps, who have been engaged in running all negroes out of that section.

There is a rumor prevalent in Bremen that a three-masted vessel has foundered in a storm off Cape Horn and that twenty-seven persons were drowned.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1702—Admiral Benbow, father of the British navy, celebrated in the wars with France, died in Jamaica; born 1650.

1771—James Montgomery, Scotch poet, born; died 1854.

1790—Lopez, the ruler of Paraguay, who opened that country to foreign trade, born at Asuncion; died 1861. Lopez had an adventurous career until he reached the age of 50. He passed many years in hiding to escape the persecutions of the dictator, Dr. Francia. After Francia's death he succeeded in getting control of the government and ruled arbitrarily, yet without oppression or cruelty. He gradually opened up the country to foreign trade and immigration, made treaties, laid the foundations of a strong military power, including forts, arsenals and a navy, built railroads and provided for the education of youth in the best foreign mechanical and scientific schools.

1800—George Peabody, the American philanthropist, died in London; born in Danvers, Mass., 1765.

1856—Eugene Field, popular journalist and verse writer, died in Chicago; born 1850.

MR. BRYAN AT HOME.

Spent the Afternoon Sleeping, and Is Little Disturbed.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 4.—Mr. Bryan received the election at his home over a special wire. He remained during the evening in his private room in the second story of his home, leaving the first floor to the newspaper correspondents. He told them if he had any communications to make to them he would notify them. He spent the afternoon sleeping and was very little disturbed by callers.

A Losing Speculation.

Mrs. Chitchat (caller)—Why, my dear Mrs. Starvem, what is the matter? You look distressed.

Mrs. Starvem (boarding house landlady)—Oh, the awful thing has happened! You remember Mr. Griggs, who used to board here at nine dollars a week, and was such a comfort to me?

Mrs. C.—Yes. You said he had scarcely any teeth left, and could hardly eat a thing. Didn't cost any more to keep than a kitten.

Mrs. S.—That's the one. Oh, he's a villain! He came back yesterday, and I let him have board for only eight dollars a week, and now I find he's got a new set of false teeth, and eats like a horse.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Sinful Shame.

Mrs. Yergler, a fashionable Dallas lady, was very much shocked last Sunday afternoon by strains from an operatic air, that came from a piano in an adjoining house, on Ervay street. She remarked:

"How wicked it is to play such music on Sunday."

"But that's identically the same tune you heard this morning in church," replied Col. Yergler.

"Yes, but then I was in church, and had my best clothes on," responded Mrs. Yergler, with great dignity.—Texas Sifter.

A Wasted Ruse.

"Will you kindly remove your hat?" he said.

"Certainly not," said she.

"I thought that maybe you would," he said.

"The price tag shows," said he.

"And a beautiful hat like that," he said.

"Seems awfully cheap at three," he said.

"But she only said—though her face grew red—"

"You cannot play tag with me."

—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Table Talk.

"There are certainly sufficient grounds for complaint here," said Mr. Payne X. Tweek, as he stirred his coffee au lait.

"Well," said Mrs. Proon-Daly, "you will find your coffee more settled, Mr. Tweek, when your board bill shall have reached a similar condition."

And even the pie looked tart.—Town Topics.

After Dinner.

Maud—I never knew before that Mr. Smithers lived in one of those horrid boarding houses.

Mamma—How did you make the discovery?

Maud—Why, when he was passing the prunes he shuddered until his teeth rattled.—Brooklyn Life.

He Was Deceived.

Spencer—I see that Skinleigh is suing Luckton for obtaining a lot of valuable stock from him under false pretenses.

Ferguson—How did it happen?

Spencer—Skinleigh sold it to him under the impression that it was absolutely worthless.—N. Y. World.

REPUBLICANS WIN.

The Dispatch, Chicago's only silver paper, concedes the election of McKinley and calls on all citizens to declare their loyalty to the will of the majority of the people.

Indiana For McKinley.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—Four hundred out of the 3,115 precincts in Indiana, outside of Marion county (Indianapolis), show a net republican gain of 4,179, which is little over 10 to a precinct. This ratio of republican gain has been kept steadily up and if it continues it will give state to McKinley by over 30,000.

Oregon Is For McKinley

Portland, Oregon, Nov. 4.—Nearly three-fourths of the total vote of Oregon has been received. McKinley gets 42,138; Bryan, 27,409; plurality, 3,724. McKinley's plurality in the state will be 3,200.

California For McKinley.

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—California has joined the east in the McKinley landslide and its majority for the republican standard bearer will pass 5,000 at least.

Kentucky For McKinley.

Louisville, Nov. 4.—Kentucky seems to be safe for McKinley, though the majority is so close to make a positive statement. In 1,265 precincts out of 1,663 his plurality is 3,606.

Bryan Gets Two States.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The United Press says that Wyoming and Washington are no longer doubtful but absolutely certain for Bryan.

William McKinley of Ohio will be the next president of the United States. A tidal wave has carried him into the White House. He will have at least 274 electoral votes, and he may have 298. The new congress will have a large republican majority in the lower house, and a working majority of both republicans and gold men in the senate.

Legislatures were chosen in a number of states which elect United States Senators for the term beginning March 4, 1897. The terms of thirty Senators will expire with the dissolution of the present Congress and there is one vacancy in Delaware which is expected, however, will be filled before the new Congress convenes. The states represented by the outgoing Senators are Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—At 2 o'clock this morning the republican national committee issued a bulletin claiming that twenty-four states, including Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, North Dakota, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wyoming were for McKinley, with a total of 271 electoral votes. The same bulletin conceded to Bryan fourteen states, including Missouri and North Carolina, with a total of 106 electoral votes. California, Kansas, Nebraska, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Washington are claimed as doubtful.

The great cities of the country have given surprising McKinley majorities. Philadelphia heads the list, with 125,000. Chicago, which was democratic four years ago, is second, with 50,000. New York city, which has not been carried by the republicans in a presidential election since the war, gives McKinley 16,500. Louisville, the metropolis of Kentucky, comes up with 12,000. Indianapolis, which was carried for Cleveland by 1,000 in 1892, now gives McKinley 12,000. Lincoln, Neb., Mr. Bryan's home, is 2,000 for McKinley. The democratic cities of Rochester and Albany, N. Y., are now republican. Detroit (Wayne county) is reported at 18,600. St. Louis and Kansas City have given heavy republican majorities.

The Palmer and Buckner ticket is everywhere returned at small figures, indicating that four-fifths of the sound money democratic vote has been given to McKinley.

McKinley's plurality of the popular vote appears to be over 1,000,000. The greatest popular plurality ever given a presidential candidate in the past was 163,000 for General Grant in 1872.

McKinley's friends claim he has carried every state in the great region lying east of the Missouri and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers. They say there is not a break between the rivers and the ocean. Even Delaware joins the victorious movement.

Wisconsin gives McKinley a plurality of at least 50,000, and later returns may raise these figures. Indiana is claimed by 30,000 and Michigan by 50,000. Iowa rolls up 85,000 and Minnesota adds 40,000 more.

In the east the McKinley majorities are tremendous. Pennsylvania eclipses all records with a plurality approaching 300,000. New York is estimated at 255,000 in the latest returns, and still rising. Massachusetts has given 150,000, and all other New England states give large majorities. Ohio is put at 100,000 in the latest bulletin.

In many of the states carried by Bryan for president there is a division of the electoral vote on the vice presidency, due to the fact that a fusion was arranged between democrats and populists. The democratic electors are pledged to Arthur Sewall and the populist electors to Tom E. Watson. In some states the populists endorsed Bryan and Sewall electors by the terms of their fusion, while in Oregon and South Dakota the democrats endorsed the Bryan and Watson electors.

The following table shows the division of Bryan electors between Sewall and Watson:

	Bryan.	Sewall.	Watson.
Alabama	11	15	3
Arkansas	8	5	1
Colorado	4	3	1
Florida	4	4	1
Georgia	13	13	1
Idaho	3	3	1
Louisiana	3	4	1
Mississippi	9	9	1
Missouri	17	13	4
Montana	3	2	1
Nevada	3	3	1
Nth. Carolina	11	11	1
Sth. Carolina	9	9	1
Tennessee	12	12	1
Texas	15	15	1
Utah	3	2	1
Total	133	124	9

McKinley as president will have the support of a congress that is for gold in both branches. The tidal wave that has swept him into the presidency elected a house of representatives that is strongly in favor of gold.

Vermont

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 4.—Returns from the state are being compiled very slowly. Those in indicate that the republican majority will be about 60 per cent more than that of 1892, but that it will fall away from the September plurality. As near as can be calculated the republican plurality will be about 35,000. In the towns heard from the gold democrats hold about 10 per cent of the total vote, and this loss to the democratic party is about equal to that of the republican party in the state.

Maryland

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 4.—Heavy voting is reported throughout the state, unofficial returns from careful watchers at the polls indicate a large republican gain in this city. Chairman Talbot is frankly doubtful of the result in the state, and is claiming it now by only 8,000. Chairman Wellington of the republican headquarters is confident and has increased his claim of a majority for McKinley, putting it now at 25,000, which, he says, is based on reliable reports.

Tennessee

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 4.—The returns, though only partial, show a large vote by both parties for president, with the democrats holding their own or increasing their majorities, as compared with the vote of 1892. The best information obtainable is that Bryan has carried the state by a safe majority, without counting the up-river and back counties, which cannot be heard from. The republican committee admits that Bryan has carried the state.

Iowa

Des Moines, Nov. 4.—There is no room for doubt that Iowa has given a plurality of nearly, if not quite, 100,000 for McKinley and gold. Tremendous gains have shown up in the reports from every part of the state. Even in the places where the populists claimed to be the strongest and where the republicans were not certain of success large gains are recorded for McKinley and the republican congressmen.

Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 4.—Returns from Florida are meager, but indicate that Bryan and Sewall will receive the electoral vote. There is a slight democratic loss throughout the state. In fifty-six precincts the vote is: Bryan and Sewall, 4,081; McKinley, 2,093; Levering, 42. Compared with the October state election the vote shows a democratic net loss of 376.

North Carolina

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 4.—This state is in doubt. Chairman Holton claims it for McKinley by 8,000 to 10,000. The early returns indicated that the populists and democrats voted nearly solid for Bryan, and the state was claimed by the democratic committee, but later returns put the state in doubt. Late returns received by the democratic committee seem to give the state to Bryan by 10,000 to 20,000.

Minnesota

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 4.—The best judgment is that McKinley's majority in Minnesota will be from 35,000 to 40,000; that the republicans will elect six congressmen and the democrats one (in the Seventh district), that Clough, republican, for governor, will have about 20,000 majority, and that the rest of the republican state ticket will run even with McKinley.

Colorado

Denver, Nov. 4.—The result on the election of state officers is still in doubt. Bryan's plurality will reach 110,000 in the state, and Congressman Shaffroth, Silver Republican, and Bell, Populist, are re-elected by 50,000 to 60,000 each. No definite figures can be given on Legislature, but the re-election of Senator Teller is assured in any event, all parties except the McKinley Republicans having endorsed him.

Utah

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 4.—It will be late before the count can be completed. Indications now are that Bryan has carried the state by at least 10,000 majority. The legislature, which will elect a United States senator, it still claimed by both parties.

New Jersey

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 4.—The latest returns from the several counties of New Jersey, with proportionate estimates for the unreported precincts, indicate that McKinley will carry the state by from 45,000 to 50,000.

Michigan

Detroit, Nov. 4.—Chairman Ferry of the republican state central committee claims Michigan by 50,000. Figuring from the 2 o'clock count—Angree has received a plurality of 20,000, with McKinley running a close second.

Maine

Portland, Me., Nov. 4.—There was a general falling off of about 25 per cent. in the total vote compared with that of the state election. The probability is that the Republican plurality will be 40,000. In the state election it was $2,000.

Mississippi

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 4.—Bryan and Sewall carried Mississippi by a majority of 50,000, which is greater than in any election ever held in the state. Watson will not poll more than 10,000 in the state.

Connecticut

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 4.—McKinley, gold and protection have won the greatest victory ever recorded in Connecticut. McKinley has secured the state by from 35,000 to 40,000 majority.

Delaware

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 4.—Delaware has given McKinley at least 2,000 majority.

Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 4.—The state will give Bryan about 40,000 majority and a full democratic-populist congressional delegation. Returns from over the state indicate the fusion ticket carried by 25,000 majority.

Louisiana

New Orleans, Nov. 4.—Election returns are coming in slowly, but the indications are that the democrats have made a clean sweep, electing congressional delegation, and that Bryan has carried the state by not less than 30,000 majority.

North Dakota

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 4.—Both sides still hold to their claims, the fusionists that they will carry the state by about 3,000 on presidential electors and the republicans that they will carry by 5,000.

Rhode Island

Providence, R. I., Nov. 4.—From indications there is no reason to change the previous estimate of 15,000 plurality for McKinley and the election of both republican congressmen.

New Hampshire

Concord, N. H., Nov. 4.—New Hampshire returns come in very slowly on account of the number of names on the ticket, but each precinct reported shows a gain for McKinley and indicates McKinley's plurality to be 20,000. The Palmer and Buckner ballot is very light, and out of a total poll of 90,000 is not expected to exceed 5,000.

Missouri

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 4.—Chairman Gook of the democratic state committee concedes St. Louis to the republicans by a plurality of 8,000. The state, he says, is overwhelmingly for Bryan. On the other hand, Secretary Griffin of the republican state committee claims 30,000 plurality for the republican electoral ticket in St. Louis.

Nevada

Carson, Nev., Nov. 4.—It will be impossible to give complete returns from Nevada for several days, communication being slow, but indications are that Bryan's plurality will be far from as large as at first estimated.

Kansas

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 4.—At 2 o'clock a. m. enough returns had been received from all parts of the state to insure Kansas for Bryan by at least 15,000. It is estimated that the republican state ticket is defeated by about 5,000 majority and that the republicans have elected only Broderick, Curtis and Harris to congress.

Alabama

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 4.—No surprises are reported in the Alabama districts. The state will go for Bryan by about 50,000. Eight democrats and one populist congressman probably elected.

Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Pennsylvania responded with a plurality for Major McKinley which will approach 300,000. Of this Philadelphia contributes 125,000.

South Dakota

Pierre, S. D., Nov. 4.—South Dakota goes Republican by from 3,000 to 5,000. Returns are very slow, but it is certain that the state is safe for McKinley.

Ohio

Cincinnati, Nov. 4.—McKinley has carried his state by 100,000. This is a conservative estimate based on the returns so far received.

Massachusetts

Boston, Nov. 4.—McKinley's majority in Massachusetts is now placed at 124,000. Republican candidates have carried every city and town for the first time in the history of the state. Congressional delegation is unchanged, twelve republicans and one democrat, the latter the only one in New England. Gold vote was about 3 per cent.

Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 4.—Unless the farming and remote districts show up strongly for McKinley Bryan has carried the state by from 7,000 to 10,000. In 128 precincts outside of Lincoln and Omaha Bryan's net gain is 1,066. Lincoln City, with one precinct missing, gives McKinley a plurality of 840.

Illinois

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Illinois went for McKinley by a majority of over 150,000. It went for Tannor by 25,000 less. It elected a practically straight, gold republican delegation to congress. It crossed a legislature that, standing two to one republican, will select a sound money republican to succeed John McAuley Palmer in the United States senate.

Georgia

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 4.—Georgia goes 40,000 for Bryan. It is probable that the entire congressional representation will be democratic, with the possible exception of the Tenth District, where West, the law partner of the Hon. Thomas E. Watson, is giving William Hemming, democratic nominee, a close race.

West Virginia

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 4.—Estimates from six counties show heavy republican gains. McKinley is sure of this state by from 13,000 to 15,000. Republican State Chairman Price claims it by the latter figures, although the count is progressing slowly throughout the state.

Texas

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 4.—Many surprises are to be recorded of the election in Texas. This city was carried by McKinley and General J. N. Huston telegraphed Mark Hanna that if present ratio of gain is maintained, McKinley will carry Texas by 50,000 plurality.

Washington

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 4.—Indications point to republican gains in Washington, but the vote will be close. The fusionists claim everything by large majorities, while at the republican state headquarters the leaders are confident of a small plurality for McKinley.

AT CANTON.

Major McKinley's Home Town Goes Wild with Excitement.

Canton, Ohio, Nov. 4.—The city went wild with excitement, and the people surrounded and invaded the McKinley home to congratulate the President-elect on the result. Major McKinley watched the returns with a great deal of interest and confidence, and seemed certain of the result. When the returns indicated his election he smiled pleasantly and chatted with friends over the victory.

Major McKinley did not change his usual routine to any appreciable extent. He arose about 7 o'clock and took breakfast with the family. Telegraph operators and news gatherers were already about the house and the click of the instruments in the upper hall echoed through the house. The Major cast his vote about 9 o'clock.

McKinley carries Jamesville by 697.
He carries every town in Rock county, and gets the county by 4,625. Substantially, the same majority is given to each candidate on the ticket, except T. L. Acheson, who runs ahead of this and may have a plurality of 6,000.

John M. Whitehead, for senator, goes to the Jefferson county line with a plurality of 2,400. As Jefferson county gives from 700 to 900 plurality for every republican candidate, national, legislative and county, Mr.
Whitehead is elected by a big majority.
W. G. Wheeler defeats John Winans in the First Assembly district by 735.

A. S. Flagg's plurality in the Second
Assembly district will be over 1,400.
C. W. Merriman carries the Third assembly district by about 2,490.

In the following table the presidential vote is given in towns. Comparisons are made with the vote of 1892 and of 1894. All the gains are republican unless marked with a star.

*Republican gains are indicated in every district except where figures are marked by stars.
Figures marked by stars show democratic gain.

It's all over—and a large part of the shouting has been done.
Republicans "won out."
All of them.
Not one was beaten.
From president to coroner it was a clean sweep.

And impressive majorities made it
all the more decisive.
Free silver "doesn't go" in Rock county.

The statement that "the farmers favored it" was found to be untrue.
Early returns showed republican gains in nearly every precinct, and and later reports enlarged, rather than decreased the lead. Townships that had always gone democratic were found in the republican column. The town of Jamesville was a fair sample.
Two years ago, the town gave four democratic plurality. Yesterday sub-gave fifty republican plurality—a change of fifty-four votes in favor of the republicans.

And so it went.

Acheson Runs Way Ahead.

Theodore L. Acheson must be a popular man in Rock county, as he ran ahead of the ticket in all the precincts, and his plurality will exceed that of the national and state tickets. He carried every ward in the city—the Fifth by 3, and the Fourth by 69.

The vote on the national, state, county, senatorial, congressional and assembly tickets was remarkably uniform with the exception of Mr.
Acheson's case, and the vote varied but very little.

The vote in the city was surprising.
A shrewd democratic politician had placed McKinley's plurality in Jamesville at 250, yet the actual plurality was over 700.

William G. Wheeler and John M.
Whitehead also made splendid runs, keeping very close to the national ticket in all precincts.

The city returns are now complete, but detailed county results come in slower. The vote is summarized in the accompanying tables.

to see Mrs. Bryan ride in the wheel-biggest display ever seen here. Com-

THE STRANGE FISHES.

Just ugly shapes and horrible aspects, such as Dame Nature's self mote [might] fear to see.

Or shapes that ever should so foul defects from her most cunning hand escaped be; All dreadful portraits of deformity.

Spring headed hydras and sea shouldering whales.

Great whirlpools which all fishes make to flee, Bright scorpions armed with silver scales, Mighty monoceros with immeasured tails.

The dreadful fish that hath deserved the name Of death and like him looks in dreadful hue, The grisly Wasserman that makes his game The flying ships with swiftness to pursue.

The horrible sea satyr that doth show His fearful face in time of greatest storm, Huge ziffins, whom mariners eschew No less than rocks, as travelers inform, And greedy rosmarines with visages deform.

LOVE'S REWARD.

Philip had known her ever so long, ever since she came here, a little, rose lipped child. He drew her to school on his little cart, he taught her to ride when older, and when her favor was no longer to be won by snowy kittens or sugared sweetmeats he laid laid at her feet a man's strong love, a heart that was brave and loyal and true as steel.

And she—she thought of the face she had seen for the first time but one short month before, the dark, handsome face that had lighted into a look of involuntary admiration at sight of her, the face of the wealthy city stranger—Edgar Reynolds.

Only one month ago, and already the lustrous eyes had learned to watch for his coming, already the girlish heart had learned to throb at his voice.

And he? No wonder he was fascinated by that fresh young face, and as the days went by he smiled to see how the love of the woman crept into the innocence of the child. And so when Philip Howard asked her for her love she had no heart to give him. She told him so with womanly tenderness and pity, and he had left her presence a very sad, very silent man.

The following day broke fair and bright, with golden sunlight on the hills and June time mists in the valley. Along the white, winding road leading to the village, in the coolness of the dewy morning, walked Florence Thorne. The birds are singing their matins in the tree tops; the brook is laughing as it ripples o'er its pebbly bed. In the midst of all this glorious, sylvan beauty the elasticity of youth reasserts itself, and the girl's step grows lighter, her heart happier, till she almost forgets her little troubles.

In the village she posts her letters and turns to retrace her steps. She meets many laborers on their way to work, and each man touches his hat and smiles pleasantly on seeing the bright, pretty face, for, young as she is, she has spent many hours helping with kindly offices and gentle pity their wives and little ones.

Coming home, she passes a house that stands in its own grounds—a house with snowy curtains, stretching verandas and a well rolled tennis ground attached. It is far more pretentious than her own cozy house. And well it may be, for it is the boarding house of this rustic little village. It is filled with fashionables just now who have fled from the crush and heat of the city, and, among others, Edgar Reynolds.

At the gate a sudden thought strikes her. The housekeeper's little child is very ill. She will go in and inquire for her. No one save the servant can be up yet. She pushes open the gate and noiselessly flits up the garden path to the rear of the house.

She accomplishes her mission and is returning, when she sees fluttering on the path before her a sheet of creamy note paper. She picks it up and glances around. It must have blown from a window left open on retiring. Yes, there is one directly overhead.

She is about to take it to the housekeeper to return to its owner, when her eyes chance to fall on two words written in a firm, bold hand, "Florence Thorne." It is but a short letter, and the girl, forgetting all honor in the intensity of her surprise, reads every word of it almost before she knows what she has done.

"Dear Will," it runs, "expect me back on Thursday. Am tired of rustication. It would have been an unbearable bore were it not for an awfully pretty girl, flirting with whom has helped to pass the time. She is the daughter of Allen Thorne, the millionaire's brother, you know. Made a fool of himself by marrying a school teacher's daughter years ago. Florence Thorne is a shy, wild rose—poor, pretty and proud as a princess—but I couldn't afford to ruin my prospects for her, you know. Much as I could do to keep from losing my heart in earnest. Had half a mind to throw over Agatha Vere's thousands, but—pshaw, the bank account carries the day."

There is little more relating to business matters, then the letter closes with the hastily scratched signature, "Edgar Reynolds."

The girl stands stiff and rigid in the bright morning sunlight, a great startled horror in her eyes. All the pretty, childish beauty dies in the strained intensity of that gaze.

Hark! Is that some one coming? For a moment she lifts her hand to her head in a confused, helpless way. Then, crushing the letter into her bosom, she turns and flies fast as her leaden weighted feet will bear her down the path, through the gate, along the dusty highway—home.

Her uncle came to her on receipt of Philip Howard's letter, stating how ill she was, his lonely old heart warming with love toward his brother's orphan child. As for Edgar Reynolds, he had heard of her illness with his usual well bred indifference.

"Poor little thing! Perhaps it's the best way it could have ended after all," he said, and so, congratulating himself, he had gone back to town, while Philip Howard, far out on the broad Atlantic, a self made exile from home and friends, carried in his heart of hearts the picture of a lovely, wistful, girlish face, with shiest pansy purple eyes.

Three years afterward James Thorne's palace home is a blaze of light and beauty. The massive doors are flung open; the perfume of the flowers floats out on the night air.

The soft, brilliant light from the chandeliers, through curtains of amber satin and creamy lace, streams forth on the street below.

She has received them all with a sweet, imperious grace, wholly her own, and is glancing away, on a partner's arm, when she looks up and sees before her a late arrival—Edgar Reynolds.

The dark debonaire face is handsome as of yore, and it brightens as if with new life when he sees her.

"Florence—Miss Thorne!" He has sprung forward eagerly, and, regardless of the presence of others, held out both hands.

Florence Thorne looks up at him in calm surprise. She does not smile; she does not cry out. No tinge of the rose flush dies from her face. The pansy purple eyes do not droop; the lily hands do not tremble.

So she lays her hand a moment in his, coldly, courteously.

"Have you come back at last—at last?"

"Yes, we returned a fortnight ago," rings out the clear, silvery voice. "Captain Arthurs, will you take me to the ballroom?"

She bows a trifle haughtily to Edgar Reynolds and leaves the drawing room—her partner's arm.

The night goes by with the ripple of laughter, the crash of music, the tread of dancing feet.

Everywhere admiring eyes follow Florence Thorne, and her uncle looks fondly on and smiles to see the world bow down before his darling. "Such wit, such repartee, such matchless grace!" they say. "She is the beauty of the season."

"One dance, only one," pleads Edgar Reynolds, "for the sake of old times." She laughs, that clear, happy laugh of hers, and leaves him.

He stands where she has left him and looks after her with hot, angry eyes.

He has staid single and let Agatha Vere's bank account slip through his hands for the sake of this girl and James Thorne's wealth.

Oh, now—now for one hour of the old dominion.

He sees a servant approach her in the crowd, sees her bend her haughty head and follow him.

"I must have it out with her now," he says, clutching his hands fiercely. "I must awake the old love tonight if ever."

He follows her through the long, gas lit room till, parting the velvet curtains at the end, she enters a cool, dim, shadowy alcove.

He is just behind her, but draws back quickly in the shade of a tall, flower crowned pillar as he sees a man turn from the marble mantel at the farther end of the room, against which he had been leaning—a man bearded and bronzed and travel stained.

"Oh, Philip!"

The girl sprang forward, a streaming light in her eyes, a vivid color in her cheeks.

"Little Flo!" he says softly.

It was the old pet name for her when she was a little child. When she grew up a "fair girl graduate, with golden hair," she was "Miss Florence." Now the old name sprang first to his lips.

Both her slender white hands rest in his own—not reluctantly now. The man in the shadow of the velvet portiere looks on with compressed lips. Ah, he recognizes him now—his rustic rival of three years ago.

"Little Flo," he says again, and this time his eyes are suspiciously moist. With a woman's quick perception she sees it and withdraws her hands.

For a moment she is a shy girl again, for she knows how, in spite of wealthy suitors and a countess' coronet, she has faithfully guarded the love awakened three years ago—the true love that flourished when the false love died.

"Have you no better welcome, Florence—no gift of love? Have I hoped and waited in vain? Oh, my darling!"

"Silence! This lady is my promised wife."

It is Edgar Reynolds, white with rage, who speaks, but Florence turns to him with her calmest, sweetest smile. "You are mistaken, Mr. Reynolds. A pretty girl with whom you flirted three years ago helped to pass the time, but she was only a shy, wild rose, and you couldn't afford to ruin your prospects for her, you know."

As she speaks she draws from her breast and hands him a sheet of crumpled paper.

Then she turns to the lover of her childhood, girlhood, womanhood, and lays her hands in his, and he clasps the figure in its trailing satin robes close in his strong arms till "little Flo" cries out in alarm, "Oh, Philip, you have crushed my flowers!"

And Edgar Reynolds goes forth from the room and forth from their lives, and for once true love has its royal reward.—Exchange.

Then He Was Hot.

A northern man traveling through Missouri on horseback arrived at the bank of a river. There was no way to cross it except by swimming; so, dismounting, he tied his clothes to the horse and drove him into the river, swimming after him. Reaching the other side, he dressed and continued on his way. Before going 20 feet, however, he came to the forks of the road and looked around for a sign. There was none, but just across the river, near the spot he had entered to swim across, he saw a board nailed on a tree. There was nothing to do but to get in and swim across again and read that sign.

He swam across, and, after climbing up the bank, he read the following notice: "Five dollar fine for crossing this bridge faster than a walk."—San Francisco Argonaut.

MAKING SILHOUETTES.

Some Instruction in the Art of Producing These Favorites.

Even in the enlightened days, when the art of photography has advanced so very near to perfection, there are still some old-fashioned people who cling with fondness to these silhouettes. One great thing in their favor is, that the least clever among us may, with a little patience and a steady hand, find in them a pleasing recreation, and soon become adroit in their execution. But there may be some of our young readers who scarcely know what a silhouette is, and such unenlightened persons we will endeavor briefly to instruct in the almost forgotten art. A few sheets of drawing paper, a pencil, and a lamp, are all the essentials needed to commence operations. The operator first fixes a sheet of paper to the wall, by inserting a pin in each corner. Then the person whose likeness, or "silhouette," is to be taken is seated in a chair, close to the wall, in such a position as to throw a distinct shadow of his profile (as near life-size as possible) on the center of the paper.

To secure steadiness a wine glass, or some such support, is placed between his hand and the wall—for the slightest movement often causes failure. Having arranged these matters satisfactorily, the operator proceeds to sketch, with a pencil, the head and profile of the "sitter," and this requires a steady hand and some dispatch, as it is no easy matter to sit in one position for a great length of time perfectly motionless. When the sketch is concluded, little skill will be needed to bring the task to an end. The operator has only with a sharp pen-knife to cut out the head in the line of the pencil mark. The center part is then thrown aside, and the other paper laid on a piece of black cloth, which throws out the features boldly, and, if sufficient care has been taken, a striking likeness will be the reward.

POWER OF GRACEFULNESS.

French Women Are Supple and Almost Never Stiff in Their Motions.

A woman may not be beautiful, but if she possesses a graceful carriage she has a power of attraction that mere regularity of feature might well envy, says the Philadelphia Times. All grace consists in motion. The great secret of it is to unite in the same movement apparent contradictions—quickness and softness, vivacity and mildness, gentleness and spirit. Ease is the essence of grace. When Milton describes the grace of an angel it is "smooth sliding without step," and Guido's angels, graceful as Taglioni or Duvernay, seem to have been painted after Milton's description. The seat of grace is in all parts of the body, that have motion—the legs, hands, arms, head, lips, eyebrows and particularly the neck. As the head is almost continually in motion, the muscles of the neck, in order that the head may move with freedom and ease, should be extremely supple. This suppleness may be acquired by practice. French women possess it in an extraordinary degree. A French woman, sitting between two men, will address the same phrase to both of them by a free and easy motion of her head, without even moving her shoulders. The women of other countries can seldom do that. When they turn the head there is a stiffness in the joints or muscles of the neck, making them turn the body with it.

Nothing is ever graceful that is forced or unnatural. The smallest degree of affectation destroys grace, and hence the necessity of attending to that precious rule—"rien de trop"—do not overstep the modesty of nature. To trespass against this precept is to become theatrical in manner.

It Made Her Angry.

"It's strange how seriously some women seem to regard trifles," said the flat tenant thoughtfully.

"What's the matter now?" asked the householder.

"Why, there's that woman with the upright piano in the flat next to mine, you know."

"Yes. What of her?"

"She has played one tune eighteen times a day for the last three months."

"Of course. Nearly all women who play apartment building pianos do that. You can move, you know, if you don't like it."

"Well, we didn't want to do that. It might seem rude and we didn't want to hurt her feelings, so we just got her a new song and sent it to her with the compliments of all the other tenants. And, do you know, she's mad as a hornet about it."

"What was the title of it?"

"Soft and Low," I think. Something like that, anyway."—Chicago Post.

Danger at Home.

We have as much or more to fear from Americans who love money and pleasure more than they love God, than we have from foreigners. Some of the strongest advocates of a holy Sabbath are foreigners, while some of those who are endeavoring to break down its sanctity are native Americans.—Rev. U. F. Swengel.

Faith.

Faith is the mainspring of all human endeavor in the material, as well as the spiritual kingdom. Faith in the integrity of our fellow men is at the foundation of business effort. Faith in the goodness, and mercy, and wise laws of an all powerful Creator is at the foundation of our religious belief.—Rev. Charles Morris.

Cupid's Parade.

Oh, never was a day more fair
Along a quiet shore,
Than when sly Cupid mustered there
A thousand wheels or more,
And ne'er a heart was there so gay
Of all that motley crew
As mine, because that summer day,
I rode, dear girl, by you.

Oh, never was a night more fair
Along a moonlit beach—
A silent glory everywhere,
Too consecrate for speech,
And ne'er a heart was e'er so light,
As mine with rapture grew,
When I rode home that summer night
Alone, dear girl, with you.
—Albert Bigelow Payne, in Exchange.

Grandfather at the Age of 37.

W. B. Patrick, a Cincinnati expressman, enjoys the distinction of being a grandfather at the age of 37. In October, 1876, he was married in Kentucky at the age of 17 to a young lady named Pelphrey, who was then only 14 years of age. In a year after their marriage their union was blessed with a daughter. Two years ago their daughter was married to Eugene Murray, and they now have a son.

COLORS AND MATERIALS.

Striped Silk and Astrakhan Cloth—Trimmed With Fur.

Dark blue, dark green, golden brown, copper and garnet are among the fashionable colors this winter. Colors mingled with black are also much seen, as in the instance of a new velvet having a black boucle design on a colored ground dotted with spots of another color. This is a very rich material and is employed for ceremonious visiting gowns, trimmed with bands of fur or ostrich plumage. There are also striped silks in black and colors, the black stripe being of the astrakhan type. Indeed the boucle astrakhan effect is seen on the majority of new winter fabrics, and ribbed weaves are equally favored for the plain portion of fancy materials.

Among other varieties of goods are those in which metal is interwoven. These are no heavier than those without metal and are exceedingly brilliant and effective, especially at night. For evening wear there are mousselines de soie of this species, the most attractive being embroidered with fine beads and spangles in either a scattered or continuous design.

The favorite trimmings for winter gowns are bands of plumage, either curled or clipped, of various widths. Woolen galloons in numerous and more or less elaborate patterns for ordinary wear; numberless bands and other trimmings of fur, skunk, beaver and chinchilla; boleros or gorges of passementerie, beaded or plain, in wool or silk, for rich costumes, and lace interwoven with metals for the adornment of evening gowns.

The picture shows a costume of green and gray broche silk. The skirt has a narrow band of fur about the foot. The bodice is full and is covered by a fur band simulating a yoke. The collar and folded belt are of green satin, fastened with steel buckles. The close sleeves have small butterfly puffs at the top and a band of fur at the wrist. A band of fur likewise edges the collar. The toque, composed entirely of velvet flowers, is trimmed with black and pale green plumes.

WHAT IS WORN.

Boleros of Silk and Velvet With a Variety of Trimmings.

The fashionable bolero is variously found and variously trimmed. When lace or fur forms the decoration in silk or velvet, there are several ways of arrangement. If the bolero is round and fits snugly to the figure, the fur may simply border it in a single band or in two little rouleaus. If it is square, with loose fronts, it may have a shawl collar of fur forming revers diminishing toward the waist. It may at the same time be embroidered all around or adorned with applications of heavy lace—yellow, white, ivory or black.

There are other boleros, which are ornamented with a round pelerine, a sort of bertha that stops on the shoulders and over which extend below the line of the bertha. Narrow velvet, black or very dark, trims the bolero, collar and pelerine, this style of adornment having made its appearance in the fashionable list quite near the top. On light silks and on woolen goods the effect is very good, and the simplicity of it is especially united to gowns for young girls and very young ladies.

Boleros are also trimmed with coquilles of white or yellow lace, meshlin, old valenciennes and all light laces delicate enough to bear draping. These coquilles are disposed as a border on the square fronts. There are likewise boleros closed with brandebourgs, like jackets, or with straps and fine buttons. Others are made double, the upper one being of white satin or of plain or embroidered cloth, the lower of velvet or silk, most often of velvet. The white bolero has very large, pointed revers, adorned with two buttons on each side. This double effect can be produced in simple as well as costly goods, but if it is desired to obtain supreme elegance the first bolero must be of white satin covered with old point or silver lace, the second of velvet.

The cut illustrates a little girl's gown of gray wool with black figures. The skirt is gathered all around the waist, and the hem is narrowly embroidered. The full bodice opens over a plastron of plaited gray satin. The square collar is of black velvet covered with applications of white guipure. The sleeves have velvet cuffs. The hat, of gray astrakhan felt, is trimmed with gray and black striped ribbon.

Cure for Burglars.

"I believe in Dr. Jones' cathartic pills," remarked a farmer to Hostetter McGinnis.

"What are they good for?"

"Good for burglars."

"Burglars?"

"Yes, I was seriously attacked by burglars. I had no bullets, so I loaded the gun with a box of Jones' pills and killed two of them. I took only one box of Jones' celebrated pills, and the burglars are no more."—Texas Sifter.

It has been held that consumption is hereditary, and the fact that one person of a family had died with consumption was considered a sure sign that others of that family could not escape it. This is partly true and partly untrue. A man with weak lungs is likely to transmit that weakness to his children. But there is no reason in the world why the weakness should be allowed to develop.

Keep the lungs full of rich, red, wholesome blood, and the weakness will disappear. Decaying tissues will be thrown off, and new material will be added until the lungs are well and perfectly strong again. This is the thing that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does. This is what makes it cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption where it is taken according to directions. It searches out disease germs, wherever they may be in the body and forces them out of the system. It supplies the blood with rich, life-giving properties. It makes the appetite good, digestion perfect. Sold by all medicine dealers.
